Negro Leader Asks Removal Of State Police

Declares Presence In Birmingham Undermines Pact

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Negro leader says Gov. George C. Wallace is trying to undermine a biracial agreement on Birmingham's racial problems by keeping state troopers in the city.

While the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth was calling on Wallace Tuesday night to remove the high way patrolmen, Wallace again was calling on President Kennedy to withdraw special federal troops he sent into Alabama.

Wallace replied to Shuttlesworth, one of the top leaders in the desegregation campaign, that the state troopers would remain in Birmingham as long as he thinks they are needed to help maintain law and order.

Announced No Reply

The White House announced no reply to Wallace's latest telegram protesting the federal troops, but the President has shown no inclination to recall the soldiers in previous exchanges with the Alabama governor.

In his latest telegram, Wallace demanded that what he termed an "advance echelon of a military striking force" be withdrawn from Birmingham. This was a reference to about 25 officers of a headquarters planning unit in the city. Wallace said their presence invited new rioting by Negroes.

About 3,000 riot-trained soldiers have been sent to military posts in Alabama, but they are not in Birmingham.

The President had lunch Tuesday with 25 Alabama publishers and editors and the main topic of discussion was the state's racial problems.

JFK Urges Cooperation

Kennedy reportedly urged cooperation between local Negro and white leaders, and said that any Negro trend toward extremism would best be offset by conferences between moderates on both sides. The luncheon had been scheduled for some time.

The White House announces that Kennedy's trip to north Alabama Saturday for a Tennessee Valley Authority function will not include

The Man ---

Astronaut Gordon Cooper tries on the helmet he will wear during 34 hours of his 22-orbit space flight.

Piloted Solo Flight When 16

'Gordo' First Flew Plane at Age Six

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — As a boy, Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. read Buck Rogers in the funny papers and wondered whether man would fly into space before the 25th century.

Today he's amazed at the swiftness of events which have sent astronauts into space in his lifetime—and his participation as one of the pioneers of this great effort.

If anyone seemed destined for space flight, it was Cooper. He has been flying as long as he can remember.

His father, an Air Force colonel, was a close friend of such aviation greats as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, and Gordon used to listen intrigued to their flying conversations. The elder Cooper took his son aloft almost before he could walk.

"Gordo"—as his fellow astronauts call him—recalls first handling the controls of a plane when he was 6 and flying his first solo at 16.

Cooper's mother says her son always was interested in airplanes. "Gordon made a lot of model planes," she reported recently at her Carbondale, Colo., home. "Later, when he was a senior in high school at Shawnee, Okla., he had a good friend who ran an airport. Gordon worked there to pay for flying instruction. He soloed then, while his father was serving with the Air Force in the Pacific."

The senior Cooper died of cancer in 1960.

Cooper, a Methodist, was born March 6, 1927, in Shawnee. After graduation from high school in 1945, he entered the Marine Corps and spent some time at the Naval Academy Preparatory School. After his discharge in 1946 he at-

2 Girls Injured In Sebring Crash

SEBRING — Two Sebring girls were injured when a car driven by one of them went out of control and struck a tree Tuesday night at 8:16 at the intersection of W. Ohio Ave. and 17th St., police reported.

Karen Miller, 16, of 186 W. Vermont Ave., a passenger in the car driven by Sandra Iwanosky, 16, of 656 W. Ohio Ave., is in fair condition in Alliance City Hospital with multiple lacerations of the face.

Miss Iwanosky was treated at the hospital for a laceration of the left eyelid and released.

Police, who are continuing the investigation, said Miss Iwanosky was driving east on W. Ohio Ave. when the mishap occurred. The car was demolished.

tended the University of Hawaii for three years. At the university, he met and married the former Trudy Olson of Seattle, Wash. Under Cooper's instruction, Trudy soon had a pilot's license. The couple explored the Hawaiian islands in a Piper Cub. They took their first baby for a plane ride soon after she was born.

Duvalier Exile Rumors Mount

Haitian Dictator Said Ready To Flee

SANTO DOMINO, Dominican Republic, (AP)—Rumors mounted steadily that Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier planned to fly into exile today, the day his constitutional term as president ends, to escape assassination.

Duvalier had planned to continue in office by virtue of a rigged election two years ago. But rumors that he planned to flee mushroomed as opposition to his fear-ridden totalitarian regime intensified at home and abroad. His underground enemies have vowed to destroy Duvalier today.

The gist of the rumors was that Duvalier and his family would fly by Haitian air force plane to the Dutch island of Curacao, off Venezuela, take an airliner to New York, and from New York travel to Europe.

Pan American World Airways said it had four reservations in the name of "Duvalier" for its New York-to-Paris flight tonight.

State Department officials in Washington said they had heard the rumors. So had former Haitian Sen. Louis Dejoie, who came to Santo Domingo after proclaiming a Haitian government in exile in Puerto Rico with Daniel Fignole. Dutch officials in Curacao gave no indication that they were expecting Duvalier.

There was no word of Duvalier's plans from foreign newsmen in Port au Prince. All communications with the Haitian capital were

All Systems 'Go' For Planned 22 Laps

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared away on America's longest planned space flight today described his celestial ride as "quite a thrill" and early in the mission was given a go-ahead for at least seven of his planned 22 orbits.

During the first orbit he gave his spacecraft systems a thorough testing and pronounced them all in excellent shape. Mercury Control Center at Cape Canaveral then relayed the word that he was "go" for at least six more orbits.

That was the first of three critical decisions scheduled for the 34-hour flight. The other two were set for orbits 7 and 17.

Principal landing areas in the Atlantic and Pacific were at the end of each of these passes. However, alternate landing areas were located around the world in case of an emergency.

The decision to keep flying was passed on to Cooper by astronaut Virgil I. Grissom, capsule communicator at the Guaymas, Mexico, station.

"You're go for seven," Grissom—who made a suborbital flight years ago—reported.

"Roger," replied Cooper, and then jokingly made believe that he had understood Grissom to say thirty-plus orbits.

"For thirty how many?" he asked. "As many as you want," Grissom chuckled.

Completes First Circuit at 9:37 a.m.

Minutes later, at 9:37 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft passed above the Florida-Georgia border to complete the first orbit.

That was one hour, 33 minutes after an Atlas rocket blasted off from Cape Canaveral to propel Cooper's spacecraft into a nearly perfect orbit ranging from 100 to 166 miles above the earth.

Each orbital pass was to take 88.7 minutes. The first circuit required longer because it included the boost phase of flight.

As Cooper completed orbit No. 1, he talked with astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. at Cape Canaveral. Schirra Jr. whose six-orbit space flight record Cooper was out to break told the pilot, "It was a beautiful shot."

"It looks pretty good from up here, too," Cooper answered.

Schirra told Cooper to turn on his television camera and as the pictures were relayed to a monitor at the Cape, Schirra said, "You look pretty casual up there."

"Boy, I am," Cooper replied. During the first orbit Cooper became the first American space flyer to be televised live in flight. As his Atlas pushed him into space, the television camera relayed pictures of him in action and they were converted from their jerky slow-scan speed to normal television speed and relayed to American viewers by the national networks.

Canary Islands Station Picks Up Photo

A ground station in the Canary Islands also picked up a television picture during a 7-minute Faith 7 overpass.

As he whirled into his second orbit, Cooper shut off all controls and electrical power and commenced drifting flight, allowing the craft to move freely on its yaw, pitch and roll axes.

Cooper, 36, an Air Force major, rocketed into space aboard a powerful Atlas booster which blazed away from Cape Canaveral at 8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time with a roar and flash of flames.

Five minutes later the 1½-ton space craft had settled into its planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth. This was formally announced by Mercury Control Center.

Cooper took the control stick to

Flight Plan Calls for 22 Laps of Earth

The flight plan called for him to circle the globe 22 times, traveling nearly 600,000 miles on a lonely voyage lasting 34 hours, 19 minutes. If all goes right, his Faith 7 craft will parachute to a landing in the Pacific southeast of Midway Island about 6:23 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday.

The scheduled mission is nearly four times longer than Schirra's six-orbit trip last Oct. 3. But it falls far short of the tandem flights made last August by Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich, who remained aloft through 64 and 48 orbits respectively.

Cooper's Atlas lifted off only four minutes behind the earliest possible launching schedule. The short delay was caused by a minor malfunction in the ground control guidance system for the Atlas.

As he zoomed above on the initial orbit, the elated Cooper reported: "It feels good, buddy."

The shot had been postponed Tuesday because of trouble with

Registration Set Friday

Kent State University's Salem Academic Center will hold registration for summer quarter classes Friday from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Salem High School cafeteria. Anyone intending to enroll for summer classes should register at this registration because June 1 is the cancellation date for courses without sufficient enrollment.

The Summer Quarter is divided into two five-week terms, with classes beginning June 18 and July 22. Courses in American History Art Experiences, Children's Literature, and Physical Education Activities for Children will be offered.

Classes will meet on Monday,

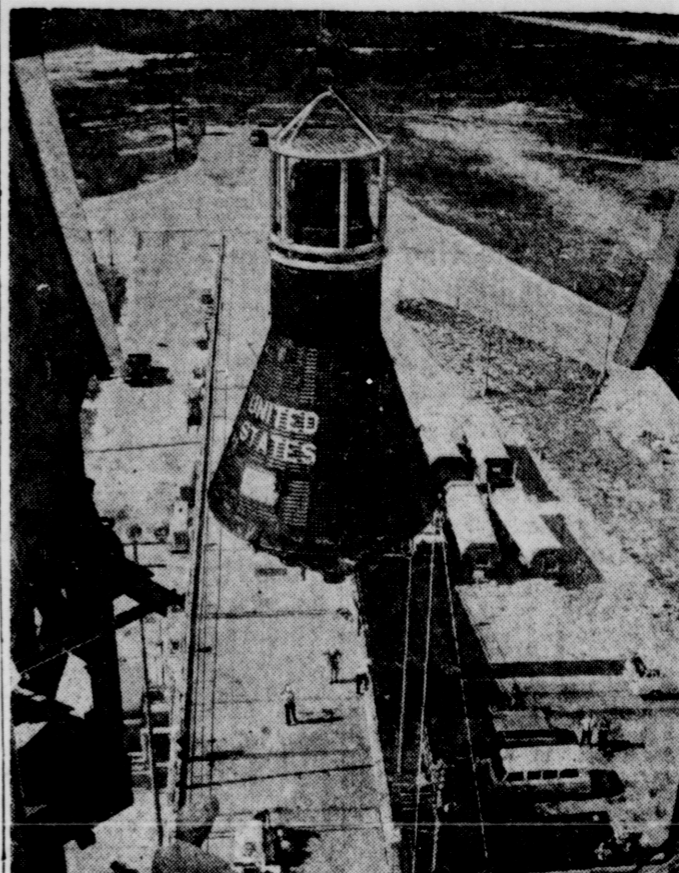

Wednesday, and Friday evenings or Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings.

Summer Quarter registration is open to present and former center and campus students in good standing, transfer and transient students from other institutions, and high school graduates without prior college experience.

1963 High School graduates are asked note the "How to Study" course which is offered four evenings, Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19. This class is designed to assist students with weak study habits and help them organize their efforts in order to gain the most from

Overpass Work To Start Friday

Construction of the $1,185,230 W. State St. overpass will begin Friday.

Accordingly, city officials were today preparing the distribution of signs and directional signals which will block off the area of the 538-foot railroad grade separation.

Bob Pautot, superintendent for the A.P. O'Horo Co. of Youngstown overpass contractor, explained that construction cannot be delayed, because of the necessity of the overpass completion contract deadline by July 31, 1964.

Wayne Goodballet, assistant project engineer for Division 11, State Department of Highways, thought the state would be ready to put detour routes into effect immediately.

Paving of 20-foot wide access roads at the rear of the residences along W. State St. west of the railroad area was completed yesterday.

Homes in the affected area will also have, eventually, besides the new roads to the rear of properties, new sidewalks. Construction plans for the $1,300,000 overpass project calls for new sidewalks both on the bridge and at a lower level, in front of the homes.

Once W. State St. is blocked for construction of the elevated roadway, the traffic detour will be in effect. It was set up by City Council by ordinance.

'No Parking' Restrictions

Parking will NOT be allowed on the following city streets during construction of the overpass: W. Pershing St., from Pine to Howard Ave.

Pine from W. State St. to W. Wilson St.

S. Howard Ave. from W. State to W. Wilson St.

Sharp Ave. from W. Pershing to Arch St.

Council Studies Proposed Hike In Sewer Rates

Street Extension, Purchase of Fire Truck Also Aired

Action was tabled until further study is made of three matters before Council at its committee-of-the-whole meeting Tuesday night, including the proposed purchase of a new fire truck, sewerage rate increase, and a proposal by Sekely Industrial Tool and Manufacturing Co. to extend Second St.

The request by the fire department for the purchase of a new truck to replace the jeep grass-fighting truck was deliberated, but action was delayed until a meeting is held May 27 of Fire Chief E. M. Bush, the traffic and safety committee of council and the administration.

Say Cost Exorbitant

Chief Bush and his staff maintain the cost of upkeep of the jeep firefighter is exorbitant and a new truck would alleviate this municipal expense. Cost of repairs amounted to $400 last year, and $500 the year before, the chief reports.

Since the new annual appropriation for fire department amounts to only $3,000, Council President Ford Joseph said the city must weigh carefully the purchase of a new truck, which would cost some $7,000.

In regard to the proposed sewer rate hike, Utilities Commissioner A. A. Parker re-read letters from the Cleveland Trust Co. which believes rates should be adjusted upward to compensate for deficiencies since the company has a responsibility to its bond holders.

To Meet Monday

Parker and his commission told Council his group is not ready yet to give a recommendation or suggestion on the proposed increase and asked to meet with the sewer committee of council Monday night to further discuss the matter.

The Utilities Commission hopes to have a firm recommendation ready for presentation to Council at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The Cleveland Trust, which holds Salem city mortgage revenue bonds, reported to Parker

'Golden-Age Village' Bill Up for Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House will vote today on a bill authorizing construction of a series of "Golden-Age Villages" to house several thousand non-psychotic aged now in state hospitals.

The bill would fulfill one of the campaign promises of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Indications from a long GOP caucus were that the bill will pass handily and go to the Senate.

The bill would create a building commission and the work would be financed by revenue bonds.

The House took care of a couple of financial matters Tuesday. It passed a bill appropriating $11.1 million to cover a welfare fund deficiency and another $2.5 million for a school fund deficiency. Both bills are headed for certain passage in the Senate.

A big feature of the legislative day was House approval of a Senate-passed bill to require relief recipients to do public work in return for their relief checks.

Leetonia Students Get Early Start In Typing

Course Offered at Junior High Level

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

LEETONIA — The clackety-clack of a typing class is a familiar sound at Orchard Hill School here, a sound that is ordinarily heard only in the halls of senior high schools.

"Typing for Fun" is offered to seventh and eighth graders, the only program of its kind in Columbiana County. Most schools do not give typing during the regular school year below the sophomore level. Salem schools offer personal typing to seventh graders and higher for six weeks in summer.

THE LEETONIA COURSE offers no grade, no credit. "No one has to take it, but we have 95 per cent of the junior high students enrolled," reports Robert Scanlon, elementary administrator. A total of 147 of 158 pupils in the two grades are learning to use the typewriter.

"Our objective is to teach the fundamentals of typewriting early so that future years may be used to acquire finesse, Scanlon maintains. This early start puts the Leetonia pupils, especially those interested in a career with a typewriter at the heart, far ahead of those who don't even learn the keyboard until 10th or 11th grades.

TYPING HAS EVEN increased marks achieved by students, the administrator reports. A majority of the students hand in their homework assignments typewritten.

The course is taught by Mrs. Therese Brudery, English and social studies instructor. Each pupil is given 40 minutes of typing guidance a week from Mrs. Brudery, although most get more practice than this. Pupils may come to use one of the battery of 20 new Royals whenever they are free during the day.

Office supply houses in the area have done a booming business since installation of the typing program three years ago. Once the children acquire a taste for typing, a typewriter is high on the list of things wanted at Christmas, and they wait no time in selling their parents on the value of a home machine.

Plans are being completed for the Summer Bible School June 3-14 at Orchard Hill School, sponsored by the Leetonia Mennonite Church and assisted by members of the other Protestant churches in Leetonia.

John J. Hanley, 45, of 523 Jefferson St., Salineville, was fined $5 and costs for parking on the traveled portion of the highway. Both were cited by Constable Forrest Young of Franklin Township.

LOSES THREE DECISIONS

CINCINNATI (AP) — A rebel faction in Boiler Makers Local 105 has lost three decisions—two in courts and one to the National Labor Relations Board. The 3rd District Ohio Appeals Court Tuesday ruled that union leaders rightly moved the local headquarters from Cincinnati to Chillicothe several years ago after a dispute over dues.

The 1st District Court Tuesday rejected the rebels' bid to balk an election set for Friday at the Chillicothe office. The NLRB dismissed rebel charges of unfair labor practices against Harold J. Maupin, business agent of the local, and other union officers. The dispute arose in 1961.

When to Call a Halt

The argument that has been popping between friends of Rural Electrification Administration and the friends of investor-owned power companies is pointedly reminiscent of warnings common when government moved into the power business in the '30s.

The warnings said use of public money to set up competition with private enterprises would continue long after the original reason for such a policy had disappeared. They said the people pushing the idea wouldn't know when to call a halt.

This is how it has turned out. Public power pushers want to keep going. When they have reached their original goals, they have set up new goals.

Having electrified the farms, the Rural Electrification people want to sell electricity to nonfarmers, just as the Tennessee Valley Authority people wanted to branch out and carry on hammer-and-tongs competition with private power companies after they had saved the Tennessee Valley.

The Council of State Chambers of Commerce has come up with a first-rate suggestion for dealing with this issue. It proposes that no public funds should be authorized for federal loans to REA for building generating and transmission facilities without specific congressional approval.

She proposal then pinpoints the recommendation by saying $290 million for generating and transmission loans in the REA budget request for $425 million should be lopped off.

In other words, the time to call a halt in federal competition with private enterprise is when the federal competitors exceed their authority.

It never was the intent of Congress, not even in the halcyon days of the New Deal, to give public power zealots a free rein ad infinitum. There was to be a limit.

Always a Fair Question

All of us trying to follow explanations for recent changes in military chiefs of staff are left with this unanswered question:

What would critics of Defense Secretary McNamara do if they had been in his place when tensions developed between him and military chiefs?

In the current instance, would they have reappointed Admiral George W. Anderson Jr. as chief of naval operations, knowing this would lead to a head-on collision of opinions? Would they have reappointed Gen. Curtis LeMay to another full two-year term as chief of air staff, though convinced that Gen. LeMay would continue to be an outspoken opponent on certain sensitive issues?

The checks-and-balances effect that grows out of divided responsibility in this representative democracy is achieved in the area of military control by making the president of the United States commander-in-chief of the armed services. A civilian thus bears ultimate responsibility for military control.

This presidential responsibility is carried along day to day by executive appointees—a civilian secretary of defense and the civilian heads of the army, navy and air force. They are the chief executive's deputies.

Inevitably, there are clashes of opinion between civilians and militarists under this arrangement. When they occur, the question always is raised as to whether the civilians, because they are not professional militarists, should be allowed to force their decisions on generals and admirals.

Actually, the question was answered in the Constitution and subsequently in the national tradition that civilian judgment not only could but should take precedence over military judgment. Defense Secretary McNamara has no choice when his judgment and military judgment are running on a collision course.

Unless his resignation is requested by President Kennedy, he must run the Defense Department his way, whether military leaders like it or not.

What Happened to the Vision?

This week the trade minister of the 55 nations belonging to GATT — the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade— will meet at Geneva.

If President de Gaulle had found it possible to let Britain join the Common Market on its own terms, prospects for doing something constructive would be brighter.

If President Kennedy's high hopes for a new tariff law giving him more flexibility in reaching agreements with other trading nations had not been blasted by President de Gaulle's decision, prospects would be brighter, too.

Something has happened to the vision of trade compatibility that was blemishing the world a year ago. In the vision, every nation would have been privileged to divert into open channels of trade all surpluses of whatever it could make better than any other nation.

The British would sell Scotch whisky to the French, who would sell wine to Britons. Italy would sell olives to the United States, which would sell pumpkins to Italy. Tariffs would be reduced systematically, and in the meantime there would be a steady increase of good will. Ultimately, the nations would be so busy trading with one another they would renounce war.

The European Common Market would be the pace-setter, and the United States would be the principal backer. But suddenly the "common market" wasn't able to work out a common position. Britain was at odds with France, and everybody seemed to be anxious to pick a fight with the United States.

No one is talking about the vision of trade compatibility now. GATT will meet in Geneva, scene of international despair, the place where obstacles always loom larger than goals, the city where the art of saying "No" in all known languages has been polished to perfection.

The poorest scenery on all the highways is the back of a truck.

It Was a Bundle

It's time again for proms, and the thought brings more with it than warm memories. Such as the roses.

When you invited a girl to the prom, you made sure you had the price of a bundle of roses. A bundle meant 12-13 if the florist was a sport.

They had to be dark red —American Beauty. They had to have long stems, and they had to be set off with ferns.

You arrived at Her house with this bundle of horticulture wrapped in green waxed paper and laced up in a box. You wanted the world to see the performance. You were with it all the way when you brought roses.

When her mother answered your ring, you went through the formalities and gave the old lady the box, murmuring something like, "Here are some flowers for Gertie." Then you wanted to see what Gertie would do with the roses.

Meanwhile, an ordeal was going on behind the scenes, where Gertie and her old lady were wondering what good old Gertie would do, too, except you didn't know this because you believed women always had answers to these problems.

Eventually Gertie did appear, dressed up like a lamb chop at a banquet, bearing your bundle on her hip. Maybe she had subtracted a few to make the bundle more bearable. She was only a kid.

You might as well have given her a bale of hay to wear. But the roses were part of the deal and if they hadn't been presented there would have been hurt feelings. They went with Gertie.

Some boys didn't go to the prom because they didn't have Gertie. And some missed the great event because they didn't have the roses. Whether it was only a local folkway, or whether it was the prevailing practice of the time seems unimportant now.

What seems important now is that Gertie and the roses made a package. The local florists made the most of the tie-in. Roses were not in season. Longstemmed roses never were in season.

They had to be shipped in from Roseland, or someplace. They were expensive.

Some of the ingenuity that characterized the females of the long-stemmed rose generation must have been developed while Gertie and her mother figured out how to anchor that bundle of flowers so the whole dropping mess would stay put during the prom. Did they pin 'em to pantywaists maybe?

This is not a knock. A dozen long-stemmed roses still can't be topped as a floral tribute. But a bundle of roses to be lugged to a dance—it was preposterous.

If the sweet young things counting on being queens of the ball this prom season want something to be thankful for, they should be thankful for floral tributes they can cope with.

Their swains now can pay their respects with little corsages that it would take 20 of to be the equivalent of one of those horticultural bundles once obligatory for promenading.

Use of U.S. Troops In Alabama Has No Legal Basis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

When Sen. John F. Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency in 1960, critics said he was youthful and impulsive. They will say the same thing as they read that Mr. Kennedy issued a statement Sunday night ordering federal troops to mobilize in Alabama to deal with future rioting or local disturbances. The President didn't think this one through. In the case of the disputes with Gov. Orval E. Faubus at Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 and Gov. Ross R. Barnett at Oxford, Miss., in 1962, there was at least an alleged basis for the use of federal troops — a supposed unwillingness on the part of the local authorities to obey a federal court order but Mr. Kennedy himself told his news conference only last week that no federal statute was involved in the controversy at Birmingham, Ala. Nor have there been any federal court orders whatsoever issued in this case.

Now the President is in the position nevertheless of having threatened the use of federal military power to deal with local disorders that may arise. There is not the slightest legal basis for the use of such power under the Constitution unless requested by the state government.

No statute grants such authority to the chief executive under the circumstances which have been reported from Alabama.

For anyone in the government to order the use of federal troops or any part of the Air Force for any purpose not sanctioned by the statutes is in itself a penal offense. A federal law says:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

The "United States code annotated" for 1963 contains a footnote referring to an opinion of the attorney general dated Nov. 7, 1957, which says "the president's authority to use federal troops under Sections 332 and 333 of Title 10 is not impaired by this section."

THIS WAS an opinion rendered in connection with the use of federal troops where a federal court order had been issued. There is a dispute among informed lawyers as to whether troops can ever be used to enforce even a court order and they contend that it is really the responsibility of U.S. marshals. At least in that case a controversial legal point was involved.

So the whole action of President Kennedy rests on the foundation that he described in his public statement — namely, "rioting, personal injuries, property damage and various reports of violence and brutality."

It is not the function of the federal government to maintain order inside a state unless there is an "insurrection" against the United States. To preserve order is the responsibility of a state.

Indeed, in the same morning newspapers in which the American people read of the President's orders to dispatch federal troops to the Birmingham area, there was published a message to President Kennedy from the governor of Alabama, George Wallace.

IT WAS SENT an hour after the President's announcement was made and read in part as follows:

"The Constitution of the United States . . . states that the federal government may send troops to quell domestic violence upon application of the State Legislature or the state."

"The Legislature of this state has made no request, nor have I. May I ask by what authority you would send federal troops into this state? . . ."

"The situation is well in hand and law and order prevail . . . Your complete by-passing of state officials and me as governor are affronts not only to me as governor but to the people of Alabama."

An examination of the federal statute cited later by the President — Section 333 of Title 10 — shows no justification for the use by the president of federal troops just to quell a local disturbance or authorities that they had better apply only if a state government refuses or fails to grant protection.

tection. This hasn't happened.

The President in his reply to Gov. Wallace says, in effect, that he didn't really intend to use federal troops in Birmingham, but only wanted to warn the state authorities that they had better maintain order and prevent violence.

If any threat to use such power is vested in the President, he can at any time intimidate a governor or mayor or local official, or he can mobilize troops to threaten reprisals and punishment if anyone in a local government doesn't do his bidding. This is an autocratic power the exercise of which the framers of the Constitution specifically sought to prevent so that no dictatorship could arise in America through the threat to use military force.

IF MR. KENNEDY feels that he has the power to prevent violence anywhere in the country, then it will be asked why no federal troops were mobilized or why the same threat of military force was not utilized before Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and his associates organized the demonstrations which, in turn, aroused the antagonism of other citizens and thus produced the conditions under which local disorder arose.

If the president actually has the power of prevention, the time to start is before the local police and the paraders clash or threaten to become involved in riots. There is a right, of course, to a peaceful demonstration, but anything which produces a disturbance is subject to police action by the local and not the federal authorities.

Hoffa's Financial Problems

By VICTOR RIESEL

Jimmy Hoffa, lighter in weight, shorter in temper, faces a serious personal financial problem. Court costs of long trials and the Teamsters own legal investigations are piling up—and there are those in and out of govt. to determine who is paying the cost of the defense in the trials of

Victor Riesel

Hoffa's baby-blue-eyed predecessor, Dave Beck, now serving a long prison term, once told a high federal official that the costs of his own counsels, accountants, transcripts came to almost half a million dollars. Other federal officials estimate the cost of Hoffa's recent nine-week trial in Nashville to run between $100,000 and $125,000.

There have been previous Hoffa sojourns in court and there are now two other pending trials.

Under a number of recent federal decisions, legal costs for the defense of those hit by charges similar to some Hoffa indictments cannot come out of union treasuries. The Teamsters Brotherhood, incidentally, already is burdened by heavy legal fees. The international union spent $912,240.76 for "legal fees and expenses" during 1962.

IF PREVIOUS decisions handed down by federal judges are upheld by the Supreme Court, Hoffa will have to take scores of thousands of dollars out of his own pocket or raise it elsewhere. Such expenses are not tax deductible.

Hoffa would have plenty of company in teamsters ranks. Many of his colleagues are under indictment. Many are being or have been probed, until recently, all the way from Puerto Rico to Los Angeles. There soon will be action in Chicago, from which a four-man Justice Department team of U.S. attorneys has just returned for consultation with Bob Kennedy.

One of the most authoritative decisions on the payment of legal and court costs by indicted union chiefs was handed down by the Washington Court of Appeals last July 19. The court, second only to the Supreme Court, said that union funds should not be used to defend union officers charged with wrongdoing.

The court also warned that the union and the officers should not be represented by the same lawyers.

"As a general proposition," said Circuit Judge Charles Fahy, who has a detailed knowledge of the labor movement, "We think funds of a union are not available to defend officers charged with wrongdoing which, if the charges were true, would be seriously detrimental to the union and its membership."

"The treasury of a union is not at the disposal of its officers to bear the cost of their defense. . . ."

A MORE RECENT decision by a federal court could put an even heavier burden on some officials who use union lawyers and union funds to defend themselves.

This came from Judge Ralph C. Body of the U.S. District Court, in Philadelphia.

Judge Body ordered Ray Cohen and two other officials of the besieged Teamster Local 107 to repay the union $24,941. This money had been used for the defense of the officials during and after a grand jury probe. The money had been paid out in 1959.

Judge Body's decision was handed down last month after a suit brought by the Local 107 Betterment Committee, a group which has been fighting Cohen, who is an international trustee of the Teamsters Brotherhood as well as the leader of the big local.

This decision established precedent, federal officials believe, for retroactive action making it possible for union members to force repayment in cases considered closed.

ONE STATUTE on which the government itself can move is Section 503 of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act. It says that no labor organization or employer shall directly or indirectly pay the expenses of the fine of an officer or employee convicted of any willful violation of this act.

Decisions building up these precedents have not been limited to Teamsters cases. There have been several others in various industries since 1961.

With such a body of law developing, it is inevitable that the government and rank-and-file committees will look into the indirect, as well as direct use of funds and personnel coming from a union. And in some cases there has been the crisscrossing of union legal talent.

Lawyers representing some locals, have spent time on the defense of officials of other union divisions.

Investigations of all this maneuvering are under way. It will take considerable cost accounting to determine just how much can be attributed to the defense of the accused. But it will be done. And when it is completed the financial burden will fall personally on those convicted.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: Why do people think that just because we have eight children we need their worn-out, faded, discarded clothing? I've made floor rags out of better clothing than friends and neighbors have brought over here for my children to wear.

We aren't wealthy people, Ann, but my husband has a steady job and we can afford to dress our children fairly well. Every time I see a neighbor or a friend coming onto the porch with a box under her arm I want to scream. My temper has just about run its string and I'm afraid that the next time I get a "contribution" I'm going to tell somebody off. Can you suggest how to put a stop to this insulting practice —NOT PAUPERS.

From Our Readers

Favors Larger Health District This is one of the rare exceptions when I feel compelled to present a counter opinion to one of your editorials.

I believe that there are circumstances and facts concerning the proposed merger of small health districts into larger districts, which should be presented.

I am unequivocally committed to the principle of local autonomy and local responsibility insofar as we can reasonably defend these principles. However, I would not for example defend the retention of small school districts with one room schools, and yet many folks felt when these districts were abolished that they had been "sold out to foreign interests."

Similarly, I think that it can be shown that small health districts are no necessarily economical nor do they provide the best possible health services.

Responsibilities of the local health districts are largely prescribed by state statute and by regulations of the Ohio Department of Health. It is the duty of the local board to see that these responsibilities are fulfilled.

The recent survey of Columbiana County Health Districts shows that we are actually paying more for health services than we realize. In addition to the staffs of the five health districts in the county, 13 school nurses are employed at a cost to schools of $38,580 or $1.48 per pupil. These nurses, although they are on school payrolls, are extensions of the eyes, ears and hands of the health department in the district where they are employed.

Salem is spending $1.35 per capita and a total of $18,825 for the operation of the Department of Health. East Palestine is spending 42 cents per capita and a total of $2,200 for the operation of its health department. East Liverpool is spending $1.15 per capita and a total of $25,068 and Wellsville is spending 93 cents per capita and a total of $6,460.

The remainder of the county is serviced by the General Health District with 67 cents per capita and a total of $41,324 for the operation of its Department of Health.

Total health district expenditures in this county are $93,877. Presently $22,320 of this amount is spent for salaries of one fulltime and four parttime health commissioners. One well-trained active commissioner could direct a health program for the entire county with a considerable saving in dollars. These funds would be available for the employment of additional staff to work in the field and to provide the county with a well-planned and well supervised health program.

This bill, (H.B. No. 441), passed the Ohio House 82 to 37 I believe that all Columbiana County residents should become better informed on this vital subject and express their views to the State Senators who will soon consider this measure.

Albert R. Hanna, Administrator, Salem Central Clinic and Hospital.

its string and I'm afraid that the next time I get a "contribution" I'm going to tell somebody off. Can you suggest how to put a stop to this insulting practice —NOT PAUPERS.

Dear No: These people aren't consciously insulting you. They don't know any better, and it's time you tol' them.

Simply let them know you appreciate their kindness but you don't need any clothing for your children. Suggest that they call Goodwill Industries or one of the local welfare agencies.

Uncle Sam Still Losing Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It can happen here. With all the good economic news and all the new bulwarks and international banking accords Uncle Sam can still lose more of his gold.
He just has, $50 million more.
The loss isn't catastrophic. He still has 315.8 billion of the metal. The drain this year even is reassuringly small—some $1500 million compared with $425 million a year ago. And this in the face of a loss in dollars themselves that has been rising this year.
But it is this increased deficit in international payments that gives the actual loss in gold more significance than the size of the drop in the metal reserves. The deficit still eludes most of the efforts so far to halt it.

It arises from the outflow of U.S. government and private dollars exceeding the return. Last year some $2.2 billion more went out than came back. In the first quarter of this year the annual rate of the deficit rose to $2.8 billion. And part of this was because U.S. exports trailed the year ago figure by 1 per cent, while imports were increasing.
This is one of the problems American delegates will take with them to the preliminary skirmish in Geneva Thursday of 40 nations seeking to readjust tariffs and other barriers to greater world trade.
The U.S. deficit of monetary payment doesn't arise from an excess of imports over exports. On the contrary, the balance of trade itself is in this nation's favor. The deficit comes from this being wiped out and topped by other U.S. spending abroad — for military bases, for economic and military aid, for private investment, for tourism.
In 1961 the United States exports topped imports by $5.4 billion, and in 1962 by $4.4 billion.
But in all of the last 10 years save one the United States ran a deficit in its total payments. The largest was $3.9 billion in 1960. Efforts to whittle down some of U.S. overseas payments—and to increase exports — have reduced the deficit each year since then. The rise in the first quarter of this year was, therefore, disconcerting.
The loss of gold comes about because as foreigners build up these surplus American dollars they turn them into their central banks. These have the right to use the dollars to buy gold from the U.S. Treasury at the fixed price of $35 an ounce, plus 8 1/2 cents handling charge. Since some central banks like to build up their gold reserves they use this right.

This is chief reason the U.S. gold stocks have fallen from more than $23 billion in 1952 to less than $16 billion today.
The United States and other leading industrial nations have an accord whereby the central banks protect against any speculative run on each other's currencies or gold reserves.
So this year despite the large surplus of American dollars other nations hold, the gold loss has been held to $50 million in each of three weeks — ending Wednesday Jan. 16, Feb. 27 and May 8.
But the loss can continue as long as the deficit of payments piles up dollars abroad.

Lawyer Named FCC Chairman

Minow Quits, Takes Britannica Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — To replace Newton N. Minow as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission President Kennedy has picked a 34-year-old lawyer who finds some "green shoots" sprouting in what Minow once described as "a vast wasteland"—the field of television.

Minow, 37, handed in his resignation Tuesday, five years before his term ends, to become executive vice president and general counsel of Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc.

To take his place, Kennedy chose E. William Henry, former member of a Memphis, Tenn., law firm, who has served as a commissioner on the FCC since last August.

Minow's resignation, to take effect June 1, set off a shuffle involving five jobs.

To fill the vacancy on the commission, the President announced his intention to appoint Asst. Atty. Gen. Lee Loevinger, 50, who has been in charge of the Department of Justice's antitrust division.

As his replacement, Kennedy said he would name William H. Orrick Jr., 47, now deputy undersecretary of state for administration.

Students may register for courses pending receipt and evaluation of their application. New students seeking admission to the program for Summer Quarter are urged to begin application procedures now in order to insure their being admitted prior to the opening of classes.

One course this summer will insure a student's admission to the center before new, stricter entrance requirements go into effect.

Students may continue to register for courses after the regular registration, May 17, during reg-begun June 18. However, students must register for both terms on or before June 1, with the exception of new students and transients, or they will be charged a late fee of $5. All fees must be paid by check or money order except during the regular registration. Textbooks will be sold at the May 17 registration.

Students wishing counseling before registering may see the director, Francis E. Hazard, during the registration time May 17. a tracking radar on Bermuda. Cooper's Atlas started him off today in the same flawless manner as other Atlases last year boosted astronauts John H. Glenn Jr., Malcolm Scott Carpenter and Schirra into orbit.

During five minutes and five seconds of powered flight, the Atlas shoved Faith 7 into an almost perfect orbit ranging from 100 to 166 miles above the earth. Spacecraft speed at orbital insertion was 17,544 miles an hour—nearly 300 miles a minute.

Because of Soviet reluctance to release detailed information on their long flights, Cooper's mission was expected to add greatly to the storehouse of knowledge U.S. scientists are collecting on the effects of prolonged space trips on a human being.

New Waterford Man Aids Cooper Flight

A New Waterford man is assisting with the space flight of Astronaut Gordon Cooper.

He is Airman I.C. Robert C. Guy of RD 1, New Waterford. As an airborne instrumentation mechanic, he is helping record vital telemetry data from spacecraft Faith 7.

Guy, a member of the 6550th Operations Group at Patrick AFB, is a son of Mrs. Ruth Fickes of 32801 Lorain Road, North Ridgeville. He graduated from Fairfield Local High School in Columbiana, and attended Youngstown University.

fully watched his condition for any signs of strain which might lead to termination of the flight.

A tape recording played at the press site at Cape Canaveral several minutes after launching showed this exchange of conversation between Schirra and Cooper when the Atlas released Faith 7:

Schirra—"You're smack dab in the middle of the go block."

Cooper—"Boy, oh boy!"

Schirra—"Have a good ride, boy."

Cooper—"Thank you, buddy."

Cooper's launching was conducted with the same openness that marked the five previous U.S. manned space flights. Thousands viewed the launching from nearby beaches. Millions, including President Kennedy, watched on television.

The television viewers included Cooper's wife, Trudy, and two teenage daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13 at their Houston Tex., home, and Mrs. Hattie Cooper the astronaut's mother, and his grandmother at the latter's home in Tecumseh, Okla.

This is in contrast with the secrecy which has cloaked all four Soviet man-in-space shots until after the cosmonauts were airborne.

After Cooper turned his capsule around, it was inclined at a 34 degree angle with the earth. This orbital attitude is the proper position for firing the three reverse rockets which would bring the capsule out of orbit in case of emergency.

In swift succession, Cooper was in contact with the tracking stations at the Canary Islands; at Kano, Nigeria, and on Zanzibar Island, east of Africa. Thirty minutes after launching, Mercury Control reported that all systems were functioning perfectly and "we have a hale, healthy and working pilot."

Cooper had climbed into Faith 7 just as a bright red sun blazed across Cape Canaveral.

He was smiling despite Tuesday's disappointment which saw the countdown move to within 13 minutes of launch, only to be frustrated by a faulty radar data analyzing device at the tracking station on Bermuda.

Cooper had left his living quarters in Hangar S as a pink blush spread across the eastern horizon. Skies were clear. There was little wind.

Walking quickly toward the waiting astronaut's van, he smiled and waved to newsmen.

Cooper waited inside the van for several minutes, then stepped through the door, shook hands with B. G. MacNabb, Atlas launch manager.

He climbed into Faith 7 at 5:32 a.m.

E. Liverpool Man Burned by Wire

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A man was burned critically today when he apparently came in contact with a high tension power line while riding on top of a freight train.

Police said Louis Bernard Noland, 25, East Liverpool, Ohio, suffered severe burns over about 90 per cent of his body.

A car inspector noticed a burned wallet and traces of blood on top of a refrigerator car. Two hours later, railroad detectives found Noland, his clothes burned from his body, on the ground alongside a track and in about six inches of water a mile away. Police said he apparently had stood up and was knocked off a slow moving train after being struck by a high tension wire.

Noland was said to have left Ohio last week in search of work at Baltimore, where he once had worked in a steel plant.

Two Motorists Slightly Hurt In Highway Accidents

Three separate area highway mishaps involving a freight train and a car, a tractor-trailer and a car and two autos ended only in minor injuries to an East Palestine motorist and one from western Pennsylvania.

Millard A. Engle, 48, of 31 E. Martin St., East Palestine, was cut on the lip when his auto slid into the rear of a rig at 2 a.m. today on Route 14, about one mile west of the Pennsylvania line.

that net operating revenues of the sewerage system have been insufficient to cover debt service for at least the past three years.

Ryan, Sutherland & Co., Toledo underwriters of the Salem city bonds, reports the deficiency for 1960 was $16,993.67; for 1961, $9,904; and for 1962, $12,406.12.

Asks Increase In Rates

The underwriter proposed the rates be increased to 75 per cent of water rates, which last year produced gross revenues of $178,278.93.

The sewerage rate in Salem has been 53 per cent for the past eight years.

Council agreed to set up a meeting as soon as possible to work out problems of Sekely's and Miller-Holzwarth Inc., relating to the impending construction of the railroad overpass on W. State St.

Sekely has offered a part of its property to the city to extend 2nd St. to Pennsylvania Ave.

To solve Sekely's immediate problem of vehicle ingress and egress, Council has agreed to widen the turn by bringing back the radius at W. 3rd St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

A preliminary study by city engineer F. S. Barckhoff was reported, indicating the extension of 2nd St. would cost about $32,000, including $27,000 for extending the street from Jennings to Pennsylvania Ave. and $5,000 for paving Pennsylvania Ave. running parallel from State St. to 2nd.

The committee discussed the project in some length and felt they would like to include in the project the extension of Pennsylvania Ave. from E. State St. to West Pershing. If this plan were adopted, it would give Miller-Holzwarth an access after the overpass is completed. However, the committee will defer action until Miller-Holzwarth has time to consider this suggestion.

After this preliminary meeting with Miller-Holzwarth on a right-of-way, the committee of the whole will call a meeting of all parties concerned, including Council, Sekely's, Miller-Holzwarth, the administration and representatives of the Salem Area Industrial Development Corp.

Council President Ford Joseph expressed confidence that "with the cooperation of all concerned, we can solve the problems to the satisfaction of everyone."

Democratic Executive Committee to Meet

Regular meeting of the Columbiana County Democratic central committee will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in party headquarters in Lisbon, Chairman Don Gosney announced today.

A number of matters are on the agenda for discussion, he said.

The Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol jailed Engle on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. His auto was extensively damaged when it rammed the rear of a truck operated by Rex E. Hall of Lyons, O.

Train Bumps Car

Cars of a slow-moving Erie and Lackawanna freight train repeatedly bumped the front end of a car operated by Hugh R. Wright, 35, of 752 Arch St., Salem, on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. at Franklin Square as the auto projected slightly onto the tracks, but Wright was uninjured.

Wright's sedan was stopped at the crossing on Route 558, one-tenth mile east of Route 344, and came too close to the passing train, the patrol said. Considerable damage to the auto resulted from the repeated pounding. The train's engineer was H. Higley of Youngstown. No one was cited.

Stalled Car Stymies Hit-Skip

After knocking a parked car into a tree, a West Middlesex, Pa., motorist was arrested by a patrolman after his car stalled about 10 miles west of the scene of the accident on Route 9, just west of Route 172, Monday morning at 4.

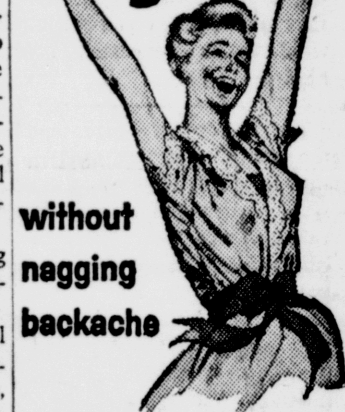

Carl G. Hogue, 63, was cited for hit-skip and driving left of center after he struck an unattended, legally parked car owned by Phyllis Conser, 26, of RD 1, East Rochester.

Traveling west, Hogue apparently lost control of his car, traveled 144 feet off the left side of the roadway and plowed into the Conser car, parked in front of a home, and knocking it into a tree.

Hogue traveled on to New Franklin where his car stopped and an acquaintance notified the patrol. Hogue cut his nose but required no treatment.

FICTION

FRIENDLY COVE by Irving Brant. The adventures of a young Spanish lad in the 18th century are here told with rapid movement and dash. Smuggling and piracy, crews of which the majority of the members had been shanghaied were commonplace, and our young hero manages to meet them all in this book.

LADY RICH by Elizabeth Boatwright Coker. The life story of Lady Penelope Devereux, who was Lord Essex' sister, from adolescence to old age. Like most novels about the court of Queen Elizabeth I, there are many characters, and much that is offensive to today's tastes, but the story truly reflects the period.

THE BISHOP'S PATTERN by Mary N. Dolim. The story of a Florida family of wealth, whose members are at the mercy of an overbearing woman, told by a little girl who is seven at the beginning and eleven at the end of the story.

MY UNCLE JOE by James McNamee. Another story told by a child. This one a boy who goes on a trip through the Northwest with the Uncle of the title.

SMITH AND JONES by Nicholas Monsarra. A Security Officer tells the story of two men who defect to the Communists. The whole thing closely parallels the well-known disappearance of two Britishers (Burgess and MacLean), although it is told with tongue-in-cheek and manages to contain a good deal of suspense as well.

JUDAS by Igal Mossinsohn. Written by one of Israel's leading novelists and playwrights, this is a story which will be shocking to Christians, for it denies the suicide of Judas. It even asserts that Judas and Jesus were both members of an underground group, led by Barabbas, which planned to overthrow the government.

DEVIL'S HARVEST by Frank G. Slaughter. A microbiologist and his team in conflict with the Communist Chinese makes a medical thriller with a different twist to the usual ones from this well-known writer.

THE FIFTH PASSENGER by Edward Young. A fast-paced suspense story with a romance thrown in to add to the enjoyment.

THE MAN WHO WOULD DO ANYTHING by Ivan T. Ross. At least he thought he would, until someone made him a proposition. MRS. MAITLAND'S AFFAIR by Margaret Lynn. A combination of mystery and romance in an English setting.

Rakow Handcuffs Tribe As Athletics Triumph 5-2

Elvis Homers For Cleveland

Grant Faces Pena In Tonight's Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics wore their dazzling green and gold uniforms, but it was their hot bats and the cool pitching of Ed Rakow that beat the Cleveland Indians 5-2 Tuesday night.

The Indians were beaten in the first inning when the Athletics knocked out starter Jack Kralick (1-5) with a four-run outburst.

The Indians got one run back in the first on a walk to Vic Davalillo, Tony Martinez' single and a sacrifice fly by Fred Whitfield. The other run came in the seventh on Max Alvis' third homer of the season.

Radow (4-2) limited the Indians to six hits. He walked two and fanned five.

Latman gave up one run on five hits in the 4-1-3 innings he hurled. Pedro Ramos pitched two hitless innings and struck out three and Bob Allen finished up with two scoreless innings, giving up one hit.

Ramos is complaining that he wishes he could start more often, instead of being in the bullpen. Manager Birdie Tebbets has some sympathy—but not much.

"With double headers coming up, Ramos probably will get some starts, but he isn't the only pitcher here who wants to be a star-er," said he manage.

"Barry Latman pitched fine ball and he'd like to start. So would Jerry Walker. He's been a starting pitcher. And there are others. Some have come to m and asked me about it.

"I tell them we'll do the best we can. The pitching staff has been something of an enigma. We'll get it straightened out, but it takes time.

"The bull pen fellows who want to start have a legitimate plea. What they say isn't going o up set our hinking or planning, however."

Grant (2-3) faces Kansas City's Orlando Pena (4-2) tonight.

Giants Trim Pirates 3-1; Colts Push Mets Back In Cellar; Braves Triumph

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

After plundering enemy territory, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, with right-hander Jack Sanford registering the 100th victory of his National League career.

In a turnaround for the defending NL champions, Candlestick hasn't been a happy haven for them this season. They were a remarkable 61-21 there last year, while only 42-41 away from home. This spring they've won only 7 of 15 at Candlestick, but have feasted on the road at a 13-5 clip.

By winning Tuesday night, the Giants pushed 1½ games ahead in the league scramble. Wondrous Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves trimmed St. Louis' second-place Cardinals 4-3. The Chicago Cubs, 2-1 winners over Cincinnati on Ken Hubbs' two-run homer in the eighth inning, moved into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh for third, 2½ games off the pace.

In other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat Don Drysdale for the first time in five seasons in a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers; and the Houston Colts posted their sixth straight victory and dumped New York into the cellar, edging the Mets 4-3.

San Francisco managed only four hits off Bob Friend in the seven innings he worked but bunched a walk to Willie Mays, singles by Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda, an error and Joey Amalfitano's sacrifice fly for two runs in the fourth. They added another off Harvey Haddix in the eighth.

Wes Covington's eighth homer started the Phils off toward a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Drysdale, who had beaten Philadelphia 13 times in a row dating back to September 1958.

Cal McLish, who won it with a five-hitter, rapped two doubles and scored twice.

The Braves, who had lost three straight and nine of their last 10, pulled out of their skid behind Spahn. The 42-year-old southpaw wizard was touched for 11 hits and was banded in the abdomen by a liner off Stan Musial's bat in the second inning. He stuck it out for his fifth victory this year and his 332nd over-all.

The Cubs ended a losing string at four on Hubbs' homer in the last of the eighth. It came against Cincinnati lefty Joe Nuxhall after rookie right fielder Ken Walters dropped pinch hitter Ken Aspromonte's fly for a two-base error.

The Colts matched a club record with their sixth straight victory, but had to stave off another of the Mets' whirlwind finishes. Dick Farrell had checked the Mets on three hits and carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth, then got roughed up for two runs on Ron Hunt's single, a walk, two ground outs and Jim Hickman's single before getting the elusive last out.

Chicago's Herbert Shuts Out Detroit 3-0; Yanks Win 2-1

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days someone is going to get a run off Ray Herbert. Sure they are. But don't hold your breath, Charley.

The Chicago White Sox ace hasn't been scored upon in four straight games and gives no indication he's going to ease up. His next scheduled outing will send him against Minnesota's struggling Twins, who have been blanked six times this season.

The 33-year-old right-hander, trade bait a couple of years ago but a 20-game winner last season, spaced six hits in scoring his fourth consecutive shutout Tuesday night, a 3-0 decision over Detroit.

The victory enabled the American League leading White Sox to retain their one-game lead over Kansas City, 5-2 victors over Cleveland.

New York's Yankees scored a 2-1 triumph over Minnesota behind Whitey Ford's five-hit pitching and veteran Robin Roberts won his first game of the season after four losses, pitching Baltimore to a 6-1 decision over Washington.

The Los Angeles Angels' game at Boston was rained out. Kansas City rushed in four first-inning runs, two on a blooming double by Jerry Lumpe, then held off Cleveland on the six-hit pitching of Ed Rakow.

The Yankees' Ford got the benefit of an unearned run in winning his fourth straight. Hector Lopez singled in the tie-breaking run after the Minnesota infield had messed up two potential double plays in the eighth.

Roberts tossed a four-hitter for the Orioles, with his shutout bid spoiled by Larry Osborne's homer. Homers by Jim Gentile and Boog Powell helped him to a 4-0 lead in the third inning.

Baseball Rules Committee Drops 1-Second Aspect From Balk Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—The tick of the clock controversy that had brought about such a monumental rhubarb in major league baseball this season has been settled.

Baseball's Rules Committee, acting on the suggestion of Commissioner Ford Frick and the two league presidents, officially deleted the one-second aspect from the balk rule by unanimous vote Tuesday.

National League umpires went on a balk-calling binge this season, playing it strictly by the book. Before the rule amended, it read that a pitcher must stop in his set position for one full second when anyone was on base. The penalty—advance of runners one base.

American League umpires required the full stop, but did not enforce the time element.

By a week ago, 96 balks had been charged in the National—20 over the old full season record for one league—and only eight in the American. In one NL game, five were called against Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, and twice seven were called in a game.

Frick then declared a moratorium on the one-second phrase, and turned the matter over to the rules committee. Chairman Charles Segar, also secretary of baseball, polled the members by telegram—rather than wait until the next formal meeting in December.

In effect, the rule reverts to the wording prior to 1950, which was that a pitcher must stop but the length of time does not matter.

The change affects all teams using official rules, which includes all professional clubs.

Beaver Local Loses, Title Game Is Next

Toronto avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Beaver Local with a 7-1 victory yesterday, and the two schools will battle for the Buckeye Border Conference at Beaver's Community Field Thursday at 4 p.m.

Tom Coulter hurled a two-hitter, at four on Hubbs' homer in the last of the eighth. It came against Cincinnati lefty Joe Nuxhall after rookie right fielder Ken Walters dropped pinch hitter Ken Aspromonte's fly for a two-base error.

The Colts matched a club record with their sixth straight victory, but had to stave off another of the Mets' whirlwind finishes. Dick Farrell had checked the Mets on three hits and carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth, then got roughed up for two runs on Ron Hunt's single, a walk, two ground outs and Jim Hickman's single before getting the elusive last out.

Walt Schuler started for the Beavers and he was relieved by Don Merritt in the second stanza.

Sophomore Dennis Harger of Beaver Local (8-3), will be on the mound in the title clash Thursday. He is undefeated in three starts.

Lemon Twist Added To List For Saturday's $150,000 Preakness

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Lemon Twist, an oddly-named thoroughbred, will be in the $150,000-added Preakness Saturday for an unusual reason: success achieved by a couple of horses that beat him.

Normally, a colt gets into a race with the stature of a Preakness on his own victories. Trainer Pete Keiser explained Lemon Twist's arrival at Pimlico from Chicago as an attempt to recoup his own miscalculations.

"When this colt finished third to Chateaugay and Get Around in the Blue Grass," Keiser said today, "I didn't think he was beaten by horses as good as they showed they were later."

"Now, one wins the Derby (Chateaugay) and the other (Get Around) wins the Withers."

After the Blue Grass, trainer Keiser decided Lemon Twist had better skip the Kentucky Derby. "I guess you can say I got Candy Spots in my eyes," he said, speaking of the Derby favorite.

Keiser's views changed after Candy Spots finished third to Chateaugay and Never Bend in the Louisville classic.

Lemon Twist is owned by Theodore D. Buhl of Detroit. The Illinois Derby was his second triumph in nine races this year.

His opposition in the 13-16th mile Preakness will include the four best from the Kentucky Derby and at least two others.

John P. Galbreath's Chateaugay will be trying to get the second leg of the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds, while his closest Derby challengers, Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend, Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, and Ambush Stable's On My Honor will be hoping to get back into the championship picture.

Also counted upon when entries close Thursday morning are Jacob Stable's Country Squire and Mrs. C. D. Morgan's Sky Wonders. Country Squire qualified by taking Monday's Preakness Prep and Sky

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS L. LIDE

Fishing has been very good at Lake Guilford over the past week with some outstanding catches being made by various individuals.

The largest bass taken that has come to my attention was a 6 lb. 1 oz.unker taken by Bob Flannery of Lake Guilford. Bob has it on display in a live tank at his bait house. Eddie Jones, Toronto, landed one bass weighing 3 lbs. 5 oz., along with 3 other smaller bass.

One walleye weighing 7 1/2 lbs. measuring 27 1/2 in. was caught by a local resident of Guilford although I could not find out his name. Dr. Charles Waggoner of East Liverpool landed a walleye 27 in. weighing 6 lbs. It was taken on a white nylon jig with a pork rind streamer.

MOST EVERYONE landed all the bullheads, crappies, bluegills, carp and a few channel cats that they wanted to take home and have a fish fry. In this class of fish you have to select the larger ones and get rid of the undesirable smaller fish.

At Zepernick Lake, you will find most of the fishermen come from the Stark County area with Canton supplying the majority and Alliance running second. Bullheads and bluegills provide the larger stringers while an occasional eastern chain pickerel and l.m. bass make up the creel assortment.

At Westville Lake, bass and crappies have been taken in goodly numbers although no record breakers have come to my attention. This lake is supported mostly by Alliance fishermen along with the local residents.

At least it is a consistent lake where all the fishermen usually take home enough fish to provide a good day fishing and come back for more.

GOOD FISHING can be had at all our pay lakes although I can't see much to fishing a stocked lake where it is possible to take large stringers of trout and channel cats, fish that aren't native to the waters. You get all the action of catching fish in their natural environments even if it is a dump and catch proposition.

Actually the walleyes being taken at Lake Guilford were "dumped" but it would be real news if someone landed a 12 in. walleye which would prove there was a reproduction. It is very possible that the recently stocked northern pike at Guilford will reproduce. I hope that anyone catching a small member of the pike family will either notify me about it in order to make positive identification or else turn the fish over to any of the concessionaires at Guilford who will pass the information along to me. It is very important to know if fish reproduce after being stocked.

Gold Bar, Moose, Charley's Boats Triumph Two-Hitter, Pair of 3-Hitters Tossed In Softball League

A two-hitter and a pair of three-hitters were pitched in City Softball League action at Kelley Park Tuesday night.

Don Casey allowed three hits as he and his Salem Moose No. 571 teammates blanked Conser's Construction 4-0. Sonny Thompson's one-hitter nailed down a 7-1 victory for Charley's Boats over Alliance Ware; and Terry Feder of Barnett's Insurance, gave up only three hits in a losing 4-3 effort to the Gold Bar. Tonight's action finds Salem Merchants in a battle against Old Dutch at 6:30 p.m.; Stepanics takes on Parker's Chevrolet. 7:45 p.m. and Alliance Ware meets Cranston's at 9 p.m.

The Gold Bar tallied its winning run in the fifth inning on a hit batter and a clever base running.

John DeFabro, Don Moulin and Chuck Wilson collected a hit apiece for the Gold Bar. Jerry Bryson was the winning hurler.

Losing pitcher Feder smashed a home run, and he and Jim Ramsey each had two hits.

Salem Moose No. 571 picked up a run in the initial frame on two errors, a sacrifice and singles by Paul Headland and Tim Hughes.

Clarence Beverly had a double and single for Conser's. Gene Oesch connected for a single for the losers' other hit in the first.

Thompson fanned 13 batters on his way to the one-hitter. His team scored a run in the first frame on a double by Beiling, an error and a single by Harold Kerestes.

Losing Bob Mohler ruined Thompson's bid for a no-hitter in the fourth with a single.

United Golfers Finish Season With Win

Bob Turner took medalist honors with a 37 as United trimmed Leetonia 6 1/2-2 1/2 in a golf match at Twin Springs Country Club Tuesday.

It was the final contest of the campaign for Coach Frank Solak and his Golden Eagles. United finished with a 4-8 record.

Buddy Hawkins chalked up a 44 for the winners. He was followed by Randy Starkie, 51; and Wayne Loschinsky, 54.

The Bears, paced by Frank Guerrier's 41, dropped their second in seven starts. Jim Hartley carded a 51, Paul Russell a 50 and Denny Holt a 45.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I am a deaf mute. I am the mother of three children.

Before I remove my laundry from the clothes lines... I give by three children a squirt bottle (the type that has a push button on top) and let them fill it with hot water and then go to the clothes line and squirt and spray all my clothes before removing them from the line. The children love it!

As soon as this is done my children remove the clothes and roll them up into balls, and put them into plastic bags. I can leave them overnight. The children have pleased me, and they also felt satisfaction out of helping their mother.

I thought this might help "hearing" mothers also. IS GREAT fun... whether you can hear or not, just to see your children come home from school and pick up those bottles and spray the clothes on your line and have them sprinkle your clothes.

And may God Bless you always, Heloise. I come from a completely dear family. I do hope you understand as will some of my other coffee friends.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A proposed regional transportation study, to cost about $1,715,000, has won the informal approval of Hamilton County commissioners, who would put up $160,000 toward the cost.

The proposal is for a study of transport needs in three Southwestern Ohio counties, three in Northern Kentucky and one in Southeast Indiana.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband works on different shifts.

Since my husband eats at one time and we at another I solved the problem of preparing two different evening meals by saving my foil TV dinner plates from previous purchases.

I prepare dinner for my husband at the appropriate hour. With what is left I simply make up six TV dinner plates for me and the children with whatever I have prepared for him.

Now here's the catch: Since we eat the dinners the same evening there is no need to freeze this!

We cover the TV plate with foil and place it in the refrigerator until ready to eat.

When he is on the other shift I do it visa versa. When husband comes home, place the dinner in the oven and set it at 400 for 15 or twenty minutes.

I dot my potatoes with butter instead of using gravy and put the extra gravy on the meat. This also is an excellent idea for mothers who must leave children with a baby sitter.

Dinners may be prepared in advance for the sitter and children with no extra effort on their part.

MRS. J. FORBES.

DEAR HELOISE: By keeping potatoes in the refrigerator it eliminates the growth of "eyes" and they stay fresh much longer.

I also keep a little of my bacon grease to rub on my baked potatoes and wrap them tightly in aluminum foil before baking. This keeps the potato and skin moist and adds a little flavor.

JUDITH MORAN.

DEAR JUDITH: Thanks... I tried this for six months. Keeping potatoes in the refrigerator does eliminate the "eyes." Also keeps them from becoming pithy. The bacon grease on the outside skin before baking is fabulous.

HELOISE.

Try Sour Cream Dinner Rolls

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Home-baked rolls make any dinner seem particularly special. Making them does take a little extra time. But the aroma, tenderness and pleasure they give, repay the homemaker several fold.

These rolls are made much like ordinary yeast rolls, except that sour cream is used in place of the butter or shortening and milk. No milk to scald! Also, the slight crunchiness of corn meal and its corn flavor add welcome texture and taste variations.

SOUR CREAM YEAST ROLLS (Makes 3 dozen rolls)

1 cake compressed or 1 package dry yeast, 1/4 cup lukewarm water, 1 pint dairy sour cream, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 1/2 to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup enriched corn meal. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) Combine sour cream, sugar and salt in large-sized bowl. Beat in 1 cup flour, softened yeast and corn meal. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas knead until satiny, about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted shortening. Cover; let rise in warm place until double in size. Punch dough down; turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Shape dough to form bowknots, twists, rosebuds, fan tans, clothespin rolls or clover leaf rolls.

Place on ungreased cookie sheets or in greased muffin cups. Brush with melted shortening; cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Brush lightly with melted butter.

Columbiana Boosters Will Erect Bleachers

COLUMBIANA — Norman Bauman, Jr., Columbiana Boosters club president, has announced that additional bleachers have been purchased from Carrollton through the combined efforts of the Boosters Club and the Park Board. Part of the bleachers are constructed so that they can easily be moved wherever needed.

Dismantling and moving of the bleachers occurred May 4 when a group of 10 men and 20 boys, headed by a committee consisting of Kenneth Brower, Steve Gayon and Bud Bortner, loaded the bleachers on trucks for the return trip to Columbiana. June 5, July 10 and Aug. 7 have been designated as "work nights" by the club, when the bleachers will be painted and erected. Money for the project was raised by members and their wives arranging and serving dinners to various organizations at South Side School.

Local groups who aided in the dismantling and moving were the Columbiana Storage Co., who provided two semi-trucks; Rea's Implement Co., who furnished trucks; Main Street Motors, loaned a truck and cutting torch; and Kenneth Bell provided slats for loading the bleachers.

TWO LOCAL GARDEN clubs will have booths at the "Spring Garden Mart" from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday in the Arts and Crafts Building at the Canfield Fairgrounds.

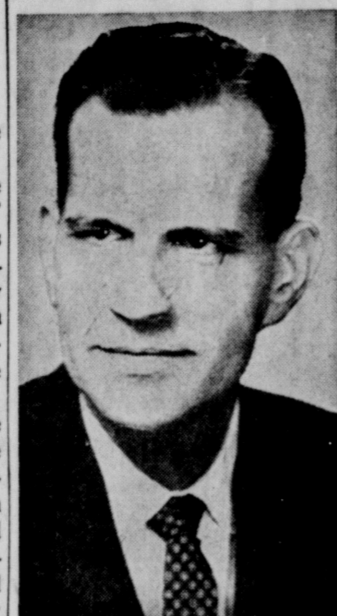

Columbiana Garden Club will have a display of milk glass for sale and the Village Garden Club will be selling woven baskets. The Green Thumb Garden club has made a money contribution to the project.

Members of 69 clubs in the Garden Forum of the greater Youngstown area will be participating in the event, which will feature handmade and unusual items not available in stores.

There will be no admission charge and proceeds will be used to remodel the Fellows Home near Mill Creek Park for a garden club center.

Mt. Union Chaplain

Dr. R. H. Sales

Dr. R. H. Sales has been named chaplain of Mount Union College, a position created by the board of trustees two years ago. His appointment was announced last night by President Carl C. Bracy after the annual Faculty Lecture had been presented by Dr. Sales, who will also continue as head of the religion and philosophy department.

A graduate of Hendrix College, Conway, Ark., Dr. Sales earned his bachelor of divinity degree at Duke Divinity School and his Ph.D. at Duke University, where he was an assistant professor of religion before coming to Mount in 1960. He is an ordained Methodist minister.

trip to the Scandinavian countries last summer when Rotary Club met Monday. The slides depicted life in the fjord and surrounding countryside. Program chairman was Olin Mowen.

There were four visiting Rotarians, Henry Hutmacher of Sebring, Charles McKenzie of Lisbon and Horace Powell and Frank Santangelo of Boardman. Glen Laughlin was a guest of Kenneth Ferrall and Robert Benson of Burgettstown, Pa., was a guest of Wayne Bauer.

At next week's meeting, county auditor Kenneth Bell will present a program on taxes. L. A. Way Jr. is program chairman.

MARJORIE MARINER, cooking demonstrator from Youngstown, will be featured speaker at the mother-daughter banquet at 630 p.m. Thursday at Grace United Church of Christ.

The program will consist of several musical selections by a flute trio composed of Barbara Bauman, Joyce Price and Susan Johns, accompanied by Betty Bevan. A piano solo will be played by Martha Candler. Mrs. Dale Sittler is chairman of the event.

HOLLAND CAMERON, director of the Salem Technical School, was the principal speaker at Monday's Kiwanis meeting.

According to Cameron, automation is making increasing demands on the already overburdened graduate engineers, creating a manpower shortage in the area of technicians and engineering assistants. He stated that the need for laborers is diminishing, as evidenced by the least unemployment figures, and that technical schools are working to fill industries need for skilled technicians.

Cameron said that entrance requirements to the schools remain high and on the same level with college entrance requirements. He concluded by saying there were two problems at the present time, "What are we doing for the great number of workers who do not qualify for the technical phase of industry?" and "How can we better meet the challenge industry is placing before us?"

Next week's program will be presented by the agriculture and conservation committee with Ryan Snyder in charge.

Atty. Don Elliot of Rogers will speak on the development of Beaver State Park.

Douglass Emins of East Palestine was a guest of William Stamets and David Powell was a guest of his father, Tracy Powell.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions, Answers

Q—I live near sea level. Air travel doesn't bother me. But when I go to cities that have an elevation of around 6,000 feet, I get headache, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, and I can't sleep. Is there any medicine I can take?

A—You have described the typical symptoms of mountain sickness, which is more severe in some persons than in others. It is due to the fact that at high altitudes the air contains less oxygen than you are accustomed to breathing. When you are in an airplane at 14,000 to 18,000 feet above sea level, you would have even more severe symptoms if the cabin were not pressurized. You are able to tolerate this simulated height because you are not exerting yourself, and are not in the air more than a few hours. If you were to move to a high altitude to live, you should spend a few days at an altitude of 4,000 to 5,000 feet before going higher. If you are planning a short trip, you should get a good night's sleep before starting out.

Smoking and alcohol should be avoided while at a high altitude. More than the accustomed amount of rest, and a light diet for the first day or two, may help to minimize discomfort. Although most people become acclimated to a high altitude, a few never do. There is no medicine for this condition.

Q—I recently gave birth to a mongoloid baby. What are my chances in another pregnancy of having a normal child?

A—Recent studies indicate that a woman under age 25 who has had a mongoloid baby is 50 times as likely to have a second mongoloid as a woman who had not had such a child.

The chances of producing a second mongoloid gradually decrease as you get older.

Q—What is the cause of mononucleosis? What can be done for it?

A—Mononucleosis is an infectious disease that probably is contact. The germ that causes it possibly a virus, has not been identified. The disease starts with a loss of appetite and vague pain. There is fever and the lymph nodes, especially those in the neck, become enlarged and sore. There may be a sore throat. The disease gets its name from the fact that a certain kind of white blood cell—the lymphocyte, which has a single nucleus—is found to be greatly increased in number in a blood count. The condition is self-limited, but the gradual return to full vigor may take two or three months. Recent reports indicate that cortisone and related hormones, when given early, will speed recovery.

Q—When a woman is on the delivery table in the last stage of childbirth and an anesthetic is being given, is it possible for her to hear and understand what the doctor and nurse are telling her?

A—Yes it is possible, because during delivery the anesthetist never allows the anesthesia to be very deep. The object is only to take the sharp edge off the pains. The cooperation of the mother is essential at all times during delivery. During the partial anesthesia, however, the mother's thought processes and responses are noticeably slowed up.
